STRATEGY OVERVIEW

The composite seeks long-term growth of capital through an investment research process focused on innovation, valuation and risk management. The investment process utilizes qualitative and quantitative analysis. Risk management is prioritized to target higher return for each unit of downside risk taken. Portfolio construction methods are used to maintain a consistent ongoing portfolio profile and provide for custom client asset allocation when requested.

Disclosures:

1. Moloney Securities Asset Management (MSAM) is an SEC Registered Investment Advisor, owned by Briar Green Holdings LLC, and an affiliate of Moloney Securities Co., Inc., a broker/dealer. Securities are transacted through Moloney Securities Co., Inc unless instructed by the client otherwise.
2. Past performance is not indicative of future results. Investment following an MSAM recommended strategy may result in capital loss. Return calculations for the MSAM composites are time-weighted using market closing prices.
3. Supplemental graph showing growth of $100,000 is for illustrative purposes only. No contributions or withdrawals are contemplated. No taxes or investment management fees are considered. The statistics are based on annual returns assuming reinvestment of dividends and income, and account for both realized and unrealized gains and losses.
4. The MSAM Innovation100 Composite contains discretionary, fee-paying accounts, managed by Ron Medley and Bailey Wang, CFA, that follow an innovation growth investment strategy. Investments can include both equity & income producing securities, but all investments are targeted to be 100% equities. Equity investments are sought in companies that display fundamental growth characteristics or exhibit characteristics that are expected to outperform in the long term. The investment research process targets innovation, valuation and risk management. Income producing securities can be used and are generally considered to lessen the volatility of the whole portfolio. Since inception date, the average allocation to income producing securities is under 10%. Account asset allocations are adjusted individually in accordance with each client's risk tolerance & investment preferences. Risk management is prioritized to target higher return for each unit of downside risk taken. Portfolio construction methods are used to manage risk, maintain a consistent ongoing portfolio profile and provide for custom client asset allocation when requested.
5. Returns are presented both gross and net of management fees and include the reinvestment of all income. Gross of fees includes trading costs and net of fees includes management fees. Net of fees is net of actual fees. There are no performance fees. All performance is in USD. The effect of withholding tax on the growth composite is not considered nor is it reflected in the benchmark price indices. The firm has a policy of checking for significant cash flows and revaluing portfolios for performance purposes when a cash flow greater than 10% happens. The fee schedule is negotiable with the highest potential fee of 2% of assets under management in the composite.
